

Salty Fly 2011 Waiver

There is no weather or safety committee, and the decision to fish is left solely to participants who do so at their own risk. Traveling out on the ocean in seas and conditions which are subject to constant change and engaging in a fishing tournament which requires movement and exposure to these conditions is an inherently dangerous activity that could result in severe injury and/or death.

All participants knowingly and willingly accept these risks. Participants represent that they are in good health sufficient to withstand the rigorous nature of this activity and are knowledgeable about safe fishing practices and boating safety.

Participants hold harmless anyone involved in running the Salty Fly, its sponsor or individual boat owners in the result of injury and/or death.
